

(1) Meet Numali Rohngang! A tribal girl living in the Assam-Meghalaya border. An ordinary 14 year old with an extraordinary determination. Numali's daily schedule comprises of washing clothes, utensils, cleaning the house, cooking , and then walking 10 kilometres from her village, to get to school. People in her village have asked her to drop out of school in order to make things easier. But for Numali that is not an option at all.

(2) Numali's mother passed away when she was younger. Since then she is responsible for managing a household of four. Her life would have been simpler if she could go to the school nearby. But her father's meager income of 1100 rupees as a gardener is a limitation. For Numali going to school is something that she would never give up. She therefore walks 10 kilometres everyday to reach Smile Foundation's Mission Education center that has been established to provide free education and nutrition to children like Numali.

(3) Smile Foundation's Mission Education programme has been encouraging people to donate child livelihood needs and also has been providing education and nutrition through charity donations to over 12,500 underprivileged children like Numali, across the country, every year since 2002. But this is just a small step forward. There are 44 million underprivileged children in India who are out of school.

(4) Speaking about Smile Foundation Mr Santanu Misha, Co-Founder, said : “As a young and responsible organization, we think that the efforts put in only by government as well as development organizations will never suffice to build an educated, poverty free and liberated society. This will happen when members of the civil society come forward and take part in the development process.

(5) To assume responsibility for a child can potentially play a vital role in the country's development as educated children are the key to a bright future. As you sponsor a charity, it shall help children of India change the course of their destiny.
